SEMINARS

The impact of cyber security is becoming increasingly apparent. By 2021 some experts predict that cyber crime damage will hit $6 trillion annually and has been described by Ginni Rometty, CEO of IBM, as "The greatest threat to every company in the world".

New GDPR regulations are coming into effect on 25th May and affect the way in which we take accountability for consuming and storing information. Penalties for non compliance are high, so companies need to be sure they understand and meet the guidelines.

Fortunately, Norbain has pulled together a range of experts who can provide additional information on these subjects across a series of seminars.

Norbain is delighted to welcome their keynote speaker Mike Gillespie who will talk about the issue of cyber and the associated threats to the industry. Mike holds multiple titles in the cyber space, including Director of Cyber Strategy & Research for The Security Institute, and Vice President of the C3i Centre for Strategic Cyberspace + Security Science (CSCSS).

PRESENTATIONS WILL INCLUDE:

- Cyber security and how the issues affect us all – Mike Gillespie
- Cyber issues specific to the industry, and some practical advice on what can be done to overcome them – Buzz Coates, IP Product Manager, Norbain

- An overview of GDPR with practical advice on what you need to do – Ian West, Director of Digital Information at Project One
